Ensure you have got revision / homework from all of your teachers for the half term break. It's not a holiday!

Think about which days you will be studying over the half term and plan them out – like a revision planner.

Share your study plan with someone at home who can help you stick to it!

This is the week to.

Start using your knowledge organisers to support your revision.
Read the guidance on the front and list some quiz questions on the

Instructions for using your Knowledge Organisers

Self-testing You can use your KOs and book in a number of different ways but you should not just copy from the Knowledge Organisers into your book. Below are some possible tasks you could do using your knowledge organisers:

What can you use them for?:

- Self quizzing – retrieval
- Getting someone to quiz / test you
- Look, cover, write, check
- Creating revision tools: flash cards, mind maps, revision clocks
- Creating summary notes: Cornell notes
- Spelling tests
- Definition tests
- Knowing what knowledge you have looked at so far and what knowledge is going to be studied – connecting your learning
- Connect your previous module/topics learning with your current learning.
- Carry out additional research
- If you are absent, you need to get work from your teacher and use your Knowledge Organiser to identify the knowledge that you need to study.

Five questions in five minute five times

There are some spaces in this book for you to practise using your knowledge organisers. When you are using your knowledge organiser to try to learn and remember something, write down five key questions and the answers and then use them to test yourself five times.

Expectations

- Keep your folder somewhere safe at home to use every time you do your homework.
- Presentation – keep your knowledge organisers neat and tidy.
- You can annotate them but do not graffiti them with notes/images that are not learning annotations
- Use them to help you to prepare for key tasks.
